

American Pediatric Society

Membership in the American Pediatric Society (APS) has been accorded to individuals who have distinguished themselves in leadership, teaching, research and contributions at a national and international level. Pediatric faculty who have well-established credentials as teachers, investigators and scholars should be considered as candidates for membership. Visit the APS website at www.aps-spr.org or call 281-419-0052 for further information.

Society for Pediatric Research

The primary purpose of the Society for Pediatric Research (SPR) is to encourage pediatric investigation by providing a forum for the presentation and dissemination of innovative ideas and research that advance the causes of pediatric medicine and the health and well-being of children. The SPR has revised eligibility criteria for membership and now welcomes applicants from all nations. Prospective members must have an advanced degree (beyond a Bachelor's degree, may include but not limited to M.D., Ph.D., D.O., Pharm.D., MPH, and MA/MS). Candidates should be actively engaged in clinical or laboratory investigation that is relevant to pediatrics and should be less than 46 years of age at the time of application. Prospective members may be 46 years or older if their research training was prolonged, interrupted, or attained in mid-career or if his/her research career was interrupted for two or more years. Applicants age 50 or older on June 21ST do not qualify. Visit the SPR website at www.aps-spr.org or call 281-419-0052 for further information.

Ambulatory Pediatric Association

The Ambulatory Pediatric Association (APA) is the organization that fosters the health of children, adolescents, and families by promoting generalism in academic pediatrics and academics in general pediatrics. General pediatrics and generalism concern the whole child in the context of family and community. Our mission is accomplished through patient care, academics (teaching and research), and advocacy. Prospective members are: faculty and fellows in General Pediatrics, Emergency Medicine, Environmental Health, Adolescent Medicine, Developmental and Behavioral Pediatrics and related divisions, community pediatric practitioners who teach students and/or precept residents, or who participate in research projects with local faculty or in regional or national research networks, and pediatric residents interested in careers in academic general pediatrics. Visit the APA website at www.ambpeds.org or call 703-556-9222 for further information.
