

Young Investigator Travel Stipend in Pediatric Hematology/Oncology

Presented by the American Society of Pediatric Hematology/Oncology

New this year!

Four Young Investigator Travel Stipends of $500 each will be awarded by the ASPHO Program Committee. Travel stipends will be awarded to fellows whose abstract submissions received the four highest scores in the blinded abstract review process.

Candidates for the Young Investigator Travel Stipend are solicited during the Call for Abstracts. Qualifications are as follows:

- ◆ Fellow in a pediatric hematology/oncology program
- ◆ Member of ASPHO
- ◆ Young Investigator Travel Stipend Application Form submitted and appropriate box checked in abstract submission program (Step 5)
- ◆ Abstract accepted for presentation at the joint ASPHO/PAS Annual Meeting
- ◆ Expectation that the young investigator nominee, if successful, will present from the podium his or her paper at the next joint ASPHO/PAS Annual Meeting.

To Apply for an Award

- ◆ Submit an abstract online with the young investigator designated as the first author.
- ◆ Indicate your interest by checking the box in the abstract submission program (Question 5).
- ◆ Complete the Young Investigator Travel Stipend Application Form.
- ◆ Include all required supplemental materials to make your Award Application complete:
 - A supporting letter from the director or clinical/laboratory mentor attesting to the fact that the nominee has played a major if not the key role in the conduct of the research project
- ◆ All materials must be received no later than December 9, 2004.

The ASPHO Program Committee will identify the recipients of the travel stipends based on eligibility criteria and abstract ranking. Each travel stipend will be in the amount of $500. Award checks will be picked up at the annual meeting. Up to 4 travel stipends will be awarded annually.
