PAS is focused on developing ways to improve collaboration, discovery, engagement, and networking at the PAS Meeting.

Cross-Disciplinary Spotlight

We encourage submission of cross-disciplinary presentations that engage multiple viewpoints to address high interest topics. Some examples:

- In-depth, updated presentations about peanut allergy management, involving bench research, clinical care delivery, advocacy, and community involvement relevant to managing children with severe peanut allergy.
- Workforce pipeline development and related issues common across pediatric subspecialties.
- Approaches to genetic analytics in patients with intellectual and developmental disabilities.
- COVID-19 findings/research that is interdisciplinary in approach.
- Diversity, equity, and inclusion
- Racism and academic pediatrics
- Intersection of pediatric hospital medicine and pediatric emergency medicine topics
- Cardiology and neurodevelopment for long-term outcomes of cardiac surgery or pediatric cancer survivors
- Nutrition in the PICU
- Telemedicine and technology for distanced-care delivery, ranging from primary care to intensive care
- Behavioral health integration as an approach to multi-disciplinary research
- Oral health equity and access
- Multidisciplinary treatment of obesity
- Health equity across disciplines

Learning Pathways – PAS 2021

The new Learning Pathways below provide a mechanism for identifying content throughout the program. You are encouraged to employ these over-arching concepts as you develop your submissions. As you do so, keep in mind how basic, clinical/translational, and health services research topics relate to each pathway.

- Advocacy Pathway: Highlights population and community health, public policy, social determinants of health, integrated care pathways (across community foundations, education and healthcare delivery organizations) and emerging topics relevant to child health. Includes topics relevant to life span, value-based care, and quality improvement science.

- Basic Science Pathway: Focuses on foundational science research based on hypothesis-driven experimental design.
- Career Development Pathway: Highlights resources and strategies for building and evolving a medical professional career, including leadership, transitioning between academic levels, working in industry, and mentoring opportunities to strengthen the physician-research pipeline.
- Clinical Research Pathway: Highlights up-to-date clinical practice standards in child health, including clinical trials, global health care delivery, clinically integrated pathways and care standards, and clinical scenario simulations, especially those focused on bench to bedside and back.
- Cross-Disciplinary Spotlight: Indicates sessions that take a broad approach to examining a complex problem, especially those that are of interest to multiple specialty areas.
- Digital Therapeutics Pathway: Highlights EHR utilization, telehealth, eHealth applications, big data analytics, and evidence-based therapeutics driven by high quality software programs and wearable technologies to prevent, manage, and/or treat medical issues (i.e. adherence).
- Education Pathway: Focuses on best practice and innovations in medical education for all participants, including diversity, development, equity, implicit bias in practice, and physician burnout and work-life balance issues.
- Epidemiology & Health Services Pathway: Health services that examine the use, costs, quality, accessibility, delivery, organization, financing, and outcomes of health care services to increase knowledge and understanding of the structure, processes, and effects of health services for individuals and populations; epidemiology studies on the distribution and determinants of health-related states or events in specified populations.
- Trainee Pathway: Focuses on career development, networking, skills development, and informational sessions that foster mentor/mentee interactions.

SCHOLARLY SESSION PROGRAM FORMATS

Basic-Translational-Clinical Roundtables encourage collaboration between basic scientists, translational researchers, and clinicians. Roundtables outline a pediatric healthcare challenge and investigative approach, provide an overview of new therapeutic applications, and discuss emerging mechanisms and biological effects being discovered. The goal: to identify areas for further exploration, develop novel research, and optimize therapies.

Debate/Pro-Con Discussions address a variety of controversies across pediatrics: diagnostics, medical management, therapeutics, research strategies, policy, and more. Look for robust debate and audience participation across 2-3 related topics.

Hot Topic Symposia focus on issues targeted to more specialized audiences, e.g., subspecialists, general pediatricians, educators, etc., than those covered in State of the Art Plenary sessions. Hot Topic Symposia generally include 3-4 presentations with time for active audience discussion.

Panel Discussions provide an interesting and engaging learning opportunity. Led by a moderator with subject area expertise, 3-5 panelists dive deep into timely pediatric issues.

State of the Art Plenary sessions present seminal advances in pediatrics featuring issues with a major impact on the health of children—advances in biomedical research, health policy, and other issues affecting the academic pediatrics field. Plenary sessions usually have invited lectures from one to three recognized leaders.

Presidential Plenaries Presidents of the four PAS partner and two alliance societies sponsor a Plenary Platform Session featuring special speakers and scientific presentations.

- American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) - Partner
- Academic Pediatric Association (APA) - Partner
- American Pediatric Society (APS) - Partner
- Society for Pediatric Research (SPR) - Partner
- American Society of Pediatric Nephrology (ASPN) - Alliance
- Pediatric Infectious Diseases Society (PIDS) – Alliance (PIDS Top Abstracts)

Clubs are focused sessions that are organized by club members and are open to all attendees at no additional fee. Session submission is limited to existing club leadership.

- Audrey K. Brown Kernicterus Symposium
- Bilirubin Club
- Bioethics Interest Group
- Directors of Research Club
- Lung Club
- Milk Club
- Neonatal Feeding Club
- Neonatal Hemodynamics Club
- Neonatal Sepsis Club
- NICU Follow Up Club
- Pediatric Hospital Medicine Club
- Perinatal Brain Club
- Perinatal Nutrition Club

PAS Special Interest Groups: For PAS 2021, six PAS Special Interest Groups are being piloted to address the interdisciplinary discussion of critical research, practice, and advocacy areas. Session submission is limited to leadership of the following groups:

- PAS SIG: Adolescent Health
- PAS SIG: Behavioral Health
- PAS SIG: Environmental Health
- PAS SIG: Global Societies in Pediatrics Across Networks (G-SPAN)
- PAS SIG: Maternal Child Health
- PAS SIG: Newborn Brain Society

Rounds With Experts: A PAS lab pilot program led by 20-30 experts that allows attendees to come together with faculty leaders to discuss a variety of topic areas, share their perspectives, and build relationships. Topics will include career development and issues on the forefront of pediatric research.
